

A Doped Substrate and Method of Fabrication

ABSTRACT

A method of applying dopant to a substrate includes selecting at least one desired property of the substrate which should vary across the substrate, and variably applying at least one dopant solution to the substrate to provide the desired property which varies across the substrate.